Join a small group of academic nurses at the picturesque Wakefield Inn just outside of Ottawa, Ontario to participate in a two day workshop on leadership in academic nursing administration! You will have a unique opportunity to learn from the wealth of knowledge nursing education and academic administration experts and returning facilitators, Sheila Brown and Sheila Devine. This Retreat is designed specifically for experienced nursing faculty and new Deans/Directors looking to enhance their leadership skills to advance their program, and the voice of nursing education within a school.

Retreat highlights:

♦ Sessions on leading in a shifting academic environment, conflict resolution, and more…
♦ Discussion on hot topics, such as social media, affecting academic administrators today
♦ Individual consultation session with the facilitators
♦ Networking with fellow emerging nursing education leaders
♦ Experiencing the comforts and cuisine of the Wakefield Inn and the beauty of the surrounding area

"A valuable opportunity for academic leaders from across the country to connect, discuss and reflect on the central issues facing nursing education today. High caliber speakers, a quiet and relaxed setting, and limited enrolment created an ideal atmosphere for developing, enhancing and “fine tuning” leadership skills”.

"La retraite en leadership de l'ACÉSI m'a permis d'avoir des échanges très fructueux avec des leaders chevronnés dans le domaine de l'administration des programmes en sciences infirmières. J'ai bénéficié de leur expérience et de leur "savoir-faire et être" pour bâtir mes propres stratégies dans la gestion de mon programme. Les participantes et participants ont même eu l'occasion d'avoir des entretiens privés avec ces leaders, un exercice fort apprécié et bénéfique."
