

McGill

Associate or Full Professor of Nursing

Faculty of Medicine – Ingram School of Nursing

Position Description

The Ingram School of Nursing of the Faculty of Medicine, McGill University, is seeking applications for a tenure stream Associate or Full Professor and chair holder of the “Susan E. French Chair in Nursing Research and Innovative Practice”. Candidates with programs of research in one or more of the following areas are being sought: (1) elder health/gerontology; (2) mental health; (3) primary care/health services and (4) health of indigenous populations.

The successful candidate will be joining the School at a stimulating time of growth and energy with a recently enlarged number of education- and research-focused faculty, major curricular revisions, and a new physical space with state-of-the-art teaching and research facilities.

Job Duties

The successful candidate will be expected to sustain and further develop an independent research program in one of the fields listed above and to incorporate relevant clinical/community partners as well as new doctoral and postdoctoral trainees into their research program. He or she will also contribute to undergraduate and graduate teaching.

The successful incumbent will also be expected to contribute to service activities within the School, the University and the wider scholarly community.

Qualifications and Education Requirements

Candidates will have been trained as nurses with a doctorate in nursing or a related discipline, post-doctoral training, and an impressive track record of peer-reviewed publications. Evidence of success in receiving competitive, external research funding will be required for appointment to this position in McGill’s research-intensive environment. All candidates should be fluent in English and would benefit from a working knowledge of French.
