

School of Nursing, Faculty of Health
Contractually Limited Appointment (CLA):
Common and Complex Challenges Across the Lifespan and Global Health

The School of Nursing, Faculty of Health, York University invites highly qualified applicants for a one-year Contractually Limited Appointment (CLA) in Common and Complex Challenges Across the Lifespan and Global Health at the rank of Sessional Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, to commence September 1, 2022. Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience. All York University positions are subject to budgetary approval.

Candidates must (1) be a Registered Nurse (RN) in good standing or eligible for RN registration with the College of Nurses of Ontario; and (2) have a Master's degree in Nursing or a related field (Nursing preferred). Individuals with a PhD in Nursing or related field are preferred.

The successful candidate will demonstrate excellence or promise of excellence and clinical and/or clinical education expertise to teach courses from common to complex health challenges in the context of care in a range of sectors or settings (e.g., rehabilitation, hospital, community, locally and globally) and living with such challenges. The candidate should have strong expertise in acute care practice with an understanding of the transition from hospital to home, family/client-centred nursing care, and theoretical and evidence-informed approaches influencing clinical decision-making. The successful applicant will be expected to coordinate students supervised by clinical course directors in practice settings. The candidate will also integrate approaches to enhance performance on the National Council Licensure Examination for Registered Nurses (NCLEX-RN). Given the global context of health and nursing, the successful candidate should incorporate the UN Sustainable Development Goals with a focus in teaching on present and future scenarios of human and planetary health, nurse's roles and responsibilities, and promotion of global health. Evidence of potential to contribute to service in administrative and committee work is an asset. York is a leading international teaching and research university, and a driving force for positive change. Empowered by a welcoming and diverse community with a uniquely global perspective, we are preparing our students for their long-term careers and personal success. Together, we can make things right for our communities, our planet and our future. The School of Nursing is in a period of transformation and growth and is now one of the largest, and most comprehensive in Canada with more than a thousand students at the bachelor, masters and doctoral levels. Students and faculty benefit from partnerships with world leading healthcare providers in the greater Toronto area, and collaborations with global health, kinesiology and health science, health policy and management, health informatics, neuroscience, and psychology.

York University has a policy on Accommodation in Employment for Persons with Disabilities and is committed to working towards a barrier-free workplace and to expanding the accessibility of the workplace to persons with disabilities. Candidates who require accommodation during the selection process are invited to contact Dr. Lisa Seto Nielsen, Chair of the Search Committee, School of Nursing, lisaseto@yorku.ca.

York University is an Affirmative Action (AA) employer and strongly values diversity, including gender and sexual diversity, within its community. The AA Program, which applies to women, members of visible minorities (racialized groups), Aboriginal (Indigenous) People and persons with disabilities, can be found at www.yorku.ca/acadjobs or by calling the AA line at 416-736-5713. Applicants wishing to self-identify as part of York University's Affirmative Action program can do so by downloading, completing and submitting the form found at: <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/self-identification-form>. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, Canadian citizens, permanent residents and Indigenous Peoples in Canada will be given priority. No application will be considered without a completed mandatory Work Status Declaration form which can be found at <http://acadjobs.info.yorku.ca/affirmative-action/work-authorization-form>.

The deadline for receipt of completed applications is May 30, 2022. Applicants must submit one application package which includes a cover letter that clearly identifies the position to which they are applying, addresses how they meet the qualifications listed above, and provide their College of Nurses of Ontario (or current jurisdictional) registration number; up-to-date curriculum vitae; three current signed letters of reference (may be sent directly by the referee); a philosophy of teaching statement; and teaching evaluations (if available). A complete application package should be addressed to: Dr. Shahirose Sadrudin Premji, Director, School of Nursing, and submitted electronically as one file to nursrch@yorku.ca. Proof of academic credentials and registration with the College of Nurses of Ontario are required prior to appointment. Incomplete application packages or those who fail to identify the position/area to which they are applying for will not be considered.